

Citation Nation

Directions:

In your group, in Microsoft Word 2007 or 2010:

1. Paraphrase the information provided from the source.
2. Create a MLA in-text citation for your paraphrased sentences.
3. Create a Works Cited page for ALL of the sources utilized.

Question #	Text	Source
1	In the fifteenth century Florentine humanists became increasingly interested in Greek philosophy as well as Roman literature, especially in the ideas of Plato.	ISBN: 9780312640583
2	The defeat of the Spanish Armada was a great victory, as great, in the view of Elizabeth's contemporaries, as the battle of Agincourt in the fifteenth century.	Royal Panoply: Brief Lives of the English Monarchs by Carolly Erickson
3	In contrast to medieval thinkers, Machiavelli did not seek to construct an ideal Christian community but to discover how politics was really conducted.	Perry, Marvin, Joseph R. Peden, and Theodore H. Laue. Sources of the Western tradition. Boston: Houghton Mifflin, 2003. Print.
4	There, spite of all the means that art and human foresight could suggest, such as keeping the city clear from filth, the exclusion of all suspected persons, and the publication of copious instructions for the preservation of health; and notwithstanding manifold humble supplications offered to God in processions and otherwise; it began to show itself in the spring of the aforesaid year, in a sad and wonderful manner.	The Decameron: The Plague in Florence.